Appeal

The Indian Red Cross Society, Andhra Pradesh State Branch is working as auxiliary to Government for welfare of society. Andhra Pradesh State recently bifurcated Andhra Pradesh and Telangana states. It has (13) District Branches and (191) Sub- Branches in the State.

Disaster Management is one of the core activities of the IRCS. Disaster response continues to represent the largest portion of work, and IRCS providing assistance to thousands of people annually who were victims of natural and manmade disasters. IRCS create awareness among communities about how they face the risks and, how to reduce their vulnerability, and how to cope confidently when a natural disaster strikes.

The coastal areas of the State experience many cyclones, which occur every year. IRCS, AP State Branch is well -prepared and has sufficient experience in evacuating inhabitants from vulnerable areas to safer places well before an impending disaster and also in organising rescue, relief and rehabilitation operations when a calamity strikes. The important aspect of such operations is to minimize the effect of calamity in terms of loss of life and sufferings of the victims.
